is hereby offered in good faith, and will be promptly paid by Goodwin & Co., for proof of the charge that poisonous compounds of any description are used in the manufacture of

Old Judge Cigarettes

they are

Absolutely Pure.

The allegations recently made by a Chicago newspaper, to the effect that the presence of Opium or other dangerous Narcotics had been revealed by a chemical analysis of these cigarettes, are at once

Baseless and Base.

The supremacy of this Brand in the markets of the world, is explained by the fact that its manufacturers have scrupulously refrained from the use of any ingredients which would rob their cigarettes of the

Perfect Purity

to which they owe their great popularity.

In any attempt to impeach this statement, Goodwin & Co. will not only willingly participate, but will do their utmost, at their own expense, to facilitate the Most Rigid Tests.

The operations of this house, whose business for years has extended to all parts of the civilized globe have been, and are, conducted on a scale never attained by ulterior methods, or the application of any but the strictest, and most honorable business principles.

Knowing that nothing but the most

Sweeping Refutation

can be the result of any competent analysis, Goodwin & Co. challenge crucial expert examination, confidently staking on the issue their reputation and Ten thousand dollars.

We shall publish, in a few days, the reports of some of the most eminent analytical chemists of Chicago, who are at work making the most thorough and exhaustive tests from Old-Judge Cigarettes purchased by them in open market.

"I Feel Perfectly Well."

"My Health Had Been Poor for a Long Time, and I Felt Most Miserable."

"I Called Upon Dr. Carroll and Felt Better at Once After Beginning His Treatment."

"Well," says Miss Samantha, with twinkling eyes, "I was sick for a long time and I was having hard work of the worst kind. I had a continuous headache, and I could scarcely sleep. I didn't feel like doing anything, and I didn't care to see anybody. I was troubled with a bad taste in my mouth, dizzy spells, and I didn't have much of an appetite. I was nervous and irritable, and I felt like I was a burden to my friends. My mother was frequently remarked, 'I wish I could do something for Samantha.' I was much troubled with a heavy, oppressive feeling in a few weeks, and I often had and this was never when I was very tired—for I had no appetite at times and couldn't eat anything.

"My eyes gave me great trouble, and I attempted to use them in reading or sewing, they would pained and hurt and burned the most awfully. I had to remember through my records, but my memory became so much impaired I was almost discouraged, and felt that life was a burden. I was quickly exhausted with the slightest exertion, weak and trembling.

"DISTRESSING AND EMBARRASSING.

Sometimes my thoughts would be so confused, and such a constant feeling of nervousness, especially in the evening, that I was frequently unable to place words which I had frequently used before, and I would stop in the middle of a sentence, and then be at a loss to know what I was saying. Then, too, I often had cold sweats, dizzy spells, and sometimes I would suddenly become so weak that I was obliged to go right through to my room.

"Yes, Doctor, in Dr. Carroll's time I did all of what you say. Sometimes I was almost ready to give up, and I felt that I could not stand it much longer. Sometimes I felt so nervous I could not sit still, and I was so weak I could scarcely walk. Then, too, I often had cold sweats, dizzy spells, and sometimes I would suddenly become so weak that I was obliged to go right through to my room.

"I FEEL PERFECTLY WELL NOW.

I was troubled so much with constipation, and the medicines I had taken had made it worse. My bowels were so weak I was obliged to use a bandage. I felt so nervous and irritable I could not sit still, and I was so weak I could scarcely walk. I got up in the morning feeling tired and dreaming, and was nervous to see anybody. My nerves were so good, or anything's equal, and I was so tired of and without any ambition whatever. I was made a new man in every respect. Dr. Carroll's treatment and medicines helped me wonderfully in every way; and I shall always use Peruna when I feel in need of such a tonic."

THE TRIBUNE'S FOUR GREAT STORIES

Chicago Life.

Publication will begin in

THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE

OF DEC. 30,

When the first installment will appear of

"By a Hair's Breadth,"

BY

EDITH SESSIONS TUPPER.

"By a Hair's Breadth" is a romantic story, tersely and powerfully told, and of increasing interest from beginning to end.

The scene is laid in Chicago, the characters are Chicagoans, and the localities described are familiar to readers of "The Tribune."

LOOK OUT FOR

OF DEC. 30

And the Story that won the First Prize,

"By a Hair's Breadth,"

BY

EDITH SESSIONS TUPPER.

No field is so rich in material for fiction as Chicago—the city which stands today as the greatest monument to human labor in the Western World.

Its mysteries are as dark as those of London and Paris.

Its catastrophes have appalled the world.

In the fever of its achievements much of its picturesqueness and many of its striking contrasts are lost sight of.

To encourage home talent to embody the spirit of Chicago in fresh and realistic fiction "The Tribune" has offered prizes which have excited wide competition. The results, in the way of Four Stirring Tales, are laid before "The Tribune's" readers. To Edith Sessions Tupper was awarded

The First Prize

For her tale, entitled

"By a Hair's Breadth,"

For which see

THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE

The same house can't hold the two. Our goods are all of one make; but you don't take to them all alike. We'll lead you off if we can. Our bargain room is for those you don't. We believe they'll prove good sellers when you find they're money savers. Suits, Overcoats—Men's and Boys'. You'll save twenty to forty per cent.

To do the same quickening work—bargain lots in other departments. Some downfalls of price in Furnishing Goods. Some in Hats. Everywhere for the same reason—to make the slow catch up and our store the best paying one in the city for the knowing buyer.

Good opportunities here for holiday gifts. House Coats, Smoking Jackets, Silk Umbrellas, Gloves, Neckwear. An abundance of all those very choice articles.

The finest line of plain and fancy Slippers in the city—alligator, seal, kid—$1.50 to $4.00.

Seal and Plush Caps from $3.00 to $5.00 under others' prices.

House Coats and Smoking Jackets—the luxurious kinds—we ought to sell high prices for them, but we don't.
